

Modelling contract up for grabs as fashion fest seeks new face in Tipp

The Dublin Fashion Festival has joined forces with 1st Option Model Management to seek out the country's hottest new model and Tipperary is on their list of model-searching locations. As part of the already brimming festival programme, the model search will take place this Friday September 9 between 2.30 and 5.30 in the Dublin Fashion Festival HQ in the former Waterstone's building on Dawson Street. There, model hopefuls can meet with the industry-expert judging panel to see if they can make the cut to be Ireland's freshest face in fashion.

The stellar judging panel will include the face of the festival Sonya Lennon and Jules Fallon, co-founder and MD of 1st Option Model Management. The winner will receive a much-coveted three-year modelling contract with 1st Option Model Management, a front cover photo shoot for The Dubliner Magazine, jewellery worth €600 from top jewellers Pandora and an A-Wear goody bag.

Tipperary hopefuls just have to make their way to Festival HQ on Dawson Street, where they will be able to pick up the latest copy of The Dubliner, where they will find the application form.

The shortlist of finalists will be selected on the Friday of the festival and the winner will be announced at the festival HQ on Sunday, September 11 at 3.30pm.

Jules and her fellow judges will be looking out for models with a special something that will make them stand out from the crowd and who can be versatile, both on the catwalk and in photo shoots.

The competition is open to females only, ages 14 to 21. It is advised to come along with a natural make-up look, an outfit that flatters your figure and to wear stilettos and a handbag. For more information see www.dff.ie

Pictured at the Tipperary Food Producers Long Table Dinner in Rockwell College, Sinead Ní Riain, Kate Molloy and Jacqueline Lanigan Ryan,