JERVIS FASHION MOVEMENT

Fancy catching a free fashion show and having a mini style makeover courtesy of Brendan Courtney from Off the Rails? Then pop down to The Fashion Movement at Jervis Shopping Centre, Dublin 1 which runs until September 10 with four fashion shows every Saturday showcasing threads from Forever 21, Topshop, and New Look. There is also a Jean-ius style centre where a team of denim experts will give you personal advice on which pair of jeans will make the most of your individual shape and size. See www.jervis.ie for more details.

Kicking off the Dublin Fashion Festival in style is Vogue Fashion's Night out, hosted by official partner Brown Thomas Dublin from 6pm-11pm on Thursday, September 8 at their Grafton Street store. Expect DJs and musicians, celebrity look-alikes, designer guest appearances, fashion master classes, make-up touch-ups, mini-manicures, as well as the opportunity to become a Vogue cover girl (or guy) for the night. Pictured is a geometric print dress from the Prada a/w 11 collection (€2,230) on sale in store now. For more info check out www.brownthomas.com

KATIE'S OFF-TRACK WITH DESIGNS

Katie Price continues her quest for world domination with a new collection for her label Day 22, although we suspect the velour tracksuit with heels look is unlikely to catch on around these parts — we hope!

CAREER IN FASHION?

Fancy a career in fashion or make-up? Check out the range of fashion industry and make-up courses showcasing at the Which Course Expo at the Industries Hall in the RDS this weekend (August 27 and 28).
