

Lord Mayor launches Christmas in the city

DUBLIN'S Lord Mayor, Andrew Montague, has invited Dubliners to come into the city to celebrate Christmas this year.

'Dublin at Christmas', the council's programme of events for Christmas and New Year was launched at the Mansion House last week.

Details of festive entertainment are now on a new website www.dublinatchristmas.ie that offers information on all aspects of Christmas in Dublin's fair city.

The site features events for all of the family and special offers in shops, restaurants, bars and hotels along with essential information for shopping and going out in Dublin.

"Dublin City Council, Dublin City BIDs, the business and tourism communities and the public transport providers have come together to make sure that Dublin will offer a festive experience this Christmas and New Year," the Lord Mayor said.

"We will have family focused events and traditional favourites for everyone to enjoy. Getting into Dublin has never been easier whether by public transport or car. So come into Dublin to shop or socialise and enjoy the city at Christmas."
