

Romance with Myths, Legends and Irish Heroes

The National Wax Museum Plus is the place for love and Romance over the midterm break and just in time for Valentines Day

Dublin February 2011

The National Wax Museum Plus will come to life during the midterm break later this month with Love and Romance being the running theme throughout the attraction.

Irish Literary Greats and the women who were the inspiration for their works, the likes of William Butler Yeats and his devotion to unattainable Maude Gonne will be celebrated with reading from the beautiful poetry he wrote for her.

The theme of love and romance will continue through the Time Vaults of Irish History and Mythology with love scenes being acted out by the attractions in house performers, these scenes will feature Niamh from Tir na Noge and her true love Oisín, Norman leader Strong Bow and his wife Aoife and the condemned 1916 Irish revolutionary Joseph Plunkett and his distraught bride to be Grace Gifford.

The museum will also welcome a very special couple this Valentines day, the one and only Romeo and Juliet who will be at the front of the museum to greet visitors with Romeo looking longingly at his true love as she lingers on the Balcony of the Armoury Building which houses the National Wax Museum.

The National Wax Museum Plus invites everyone young and old to come along from Sat 11th of February to Sun 19th of February to see what the Plus is all about this Midterm and Valentines Day with love, romance, Irish history and cultural heritage being the highlight of the visit.

The National Wax Museum Plus is an exciting interactive visitor attraction located on Foster Place, just off Dame Street, in the Temple Bar district at the heart of Dublin City Centre. The Museum is housed over four floors in the historic landmark Armoury Building, previously the home of Ireland's bullion and arms stores.

The tour will take you on a journey through Irish history and cultural heritage, an enchanting children's zone of discovery, Ireland's only dedicated tribute to our top scientific inventors, a green screen video room, a recording studio and all the exceptional life like stars of rock and roll, film, TV theatre and Sport that you would expect to see at the National Wax Museum.

The National Wax Museum Plus offers a museum experience unlike any other; whether you are young or old, a culture vulture or Fun seeker, star struck or star studded, The National Wax Museum Plus is the Ultimate experience for all.
